Dear Mike,

The Nitrothermspray System has proven to save us money just as we experienced in the first month of use. We consistently see at least a 20% decrease in the amount of liquids that we use as a result of this technology.

We have also tracked the compound and polishing pad usage and have seen a significant savings in these materials due to the quality of finish produced from the system. The polishers have indicated seeing a vast improvement, in not only less trash in the finish, but the clear coat lays down much better and requires fewer polishing products and time.

Productivity is the biggest advantage with the system. We continue to experience over 30% faster finishing times. The advantage is the heat which allows the painter to go into the booth and never have to allow flash times between coats.

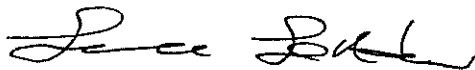

We have noticed a significant quality improvement, especially with silvers and gold metallics. The metallics lay out uniformly with significantly less mottling.

In addition to the above advantages we see less overspray with this technology, which reduces our filters cost and less clean up of our vehicles.

Working with the Haydell Industries team has been very positive as well and we appreciate the partnership that has developed between our two organizations.

I believe that this system is worth taking a strong look at. It will help make any business that is willing to try it more money.

Sincerely,

Lance LeHew
